

COLLETT'S LAWYERS CLAIM NEW EVIDENCE

Meandering
Along the Main Stem
By WASH FAYETTE

In a Court Street store the other day I heard one farmer husband kidding about how long it took wives to get ready to go any place. His wife who was present and is known for her ready wit, turned the laugh on hubby when she remarked—"You need any spare time you have to wait on me to reflect on the error of your ways".

Over in the office of the Fayette County Automobile Club the other day, several people were discussing good eyesight as a qualification for driving an automobile. One young man in the conversation brought a laugh when he said that he knew some fellows whose good eyesight was especially necessary for them to tell whether a high-way patrolman was following them or whether a traffic cop was watching.

I have heard more complaints lately than for a long time, about the roughness and bumpiness of some of the railway crossings in the city. In a time when conservation of motor car tires is needed more than ever, bad crossings certainly do not help the situation any.

S-2C James "Puss" Barger, U. S. N., can verify the statements made here a few weeks ago about the gobs at Great Lakes being bond buyers. This is what he says:

"I see by your paper a few days ago that you think we are a bond buying crew up here. Well, we are. I don't know of anyone in this barracks that isn't buying bonds. One day at school this week the Red Cross took up a collection. Out of our class of 60 men they got $45. For mostly married men who are drawing $15 a month, that isn't so bad. The Red Cross Blood Bank was here, too, but service school students were not allowed to donate—they only took blood from men in O. G. U.

You might be getting just a little tired by now of hearing how the Collett murder trial has traveled far and wide . . . but this is just a little different . . . and it really is a traveling incident.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dellinger went to Greenfield last Thursday to take M-Sgt. Stuart Gossard, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Gossard, to the train . . . As the train puffed into the station, a conductor got off the train, saw them waiting and yelled at them . . . "What did they do to Collett today?"

Later he explained it was his stock greeting at each station . . . "I've been reading the newspapers right along, but I like to know the latest." . . . he was surprised when the Dellingers told him how close Washington C. H. is to Greenfield.

BOND DRIVE CHAMP
GETS Bomber RIDE

CALDWELL, N. J., March 13.—(P)—Carl J. Buehler, a 10-year-old Verona boy, was literally up in the clouds today as a reward for his efforts in the Fourth War Loan Drive.

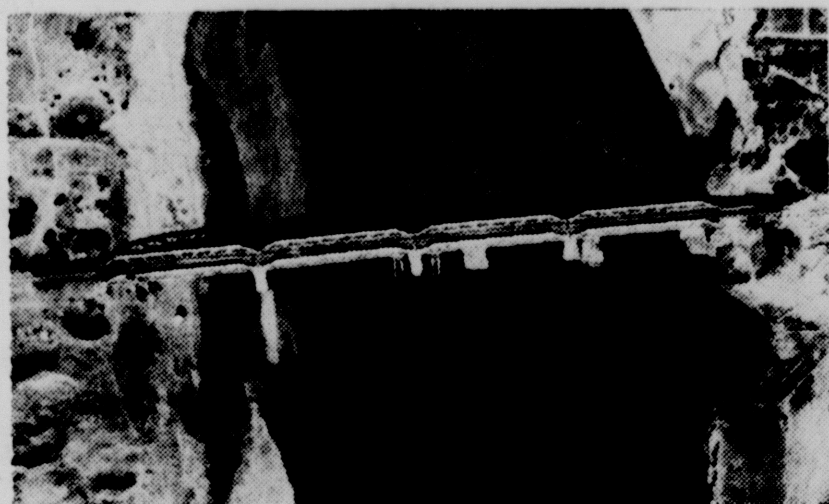

The youngster sold bonds to the value of $39,000 and requested a ride in a bomber in return. The War Department completed necessary arrangements for the flight and the lad was a passenger on the routine flight of the B-17 "Hells Angels" from the Curtiss Wright Airport during an industrial rally.

STOCKYARDS OPEN IN SPITE OF FIRE

CLEVELAND, March 13.—(P)—A. Z. Baker, president and general manager of the Cleveland Union Stockyards Co., said business would be carried on as usual today, despite Saturday's flash fire which caused the death of two firemen and destroyed 10 of 30 acres of pens and buildings.

Fire Chief James E. Granger estimated damage to the $2,500,000 yards at $100,000 and reported approximately 50 cattle and 25 hogs perished in the blaze. Origin of the fire has not been determined.

Heavy Casualties Inflicted on Japs as Chinese Troops, Trained And Aided by American Fighting Men, Destroy Most Of Famed Veterans of Singapore

NEW DELHI, March 13.—(P)—A series of Allied successes in the Arakan sector of Burma, including the occupation of Buthe-daung, 55 miles north of the Bay of Bengal port of Akyab, was announced by Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's Southeast Asia Command today.

To the west, between Buthe-daung and Maungdaw, the British also forced the Japanese from positions on the Htindaw Hill Feature, from hills between Htindaw and Buthe-daung, and from positions in the Razabil area to the north.

The communiqué said "comparatively heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy."

In North Burma Chinese and American forces, continuing to smash southward along the main road in the Hukawng Valley, advanced two miles in 24 hours and reached a point five miles south of Channa, or about seven miles south of Walawbum where Maj. Gen. Frank Merrill's American Marauders recently established a road block trapping about 2,000 Japanese.

The Americans and Chinese were within about 11 miles of the southern edge of the Hukawng Valley and preparing to drive toward Kamaing, 40 miles to the south. There they would be in a position to move on Mogaung, whose capture would cut the railway to Myitkyina, chief Japanese base in northern Burma for offensive operations against southwest China.

The famed Japanese 18th division, veterans of the capture of Singapore, had been largely destroyed by the north Burma operations led by American and Chinese-manned tanks.

Asked whether there was any discussion of the tax bill issue, the senator said it wasn't even mentioned.

After Mr. Roosevelt vetoed the tax measure, Barkley resigned his position. The president urged him to accept re-election and the senator did.

Manpower Studied
President Roosevelt, who asked for a review of all occupational draft deferments late last month, today called in three key officials to talk over the manpower problem.

They were Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board, WPB's Vice Chairman Charles E. Wilson, and Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower Commission.

The chief executive said in a memorandum to McNutt and Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey on February 26 that he thought there had been undue leniency in the deferment policy, particularly toward younger men, needed by the armed forces.

Mail Carrier Clubbed
And Then Buried Alive

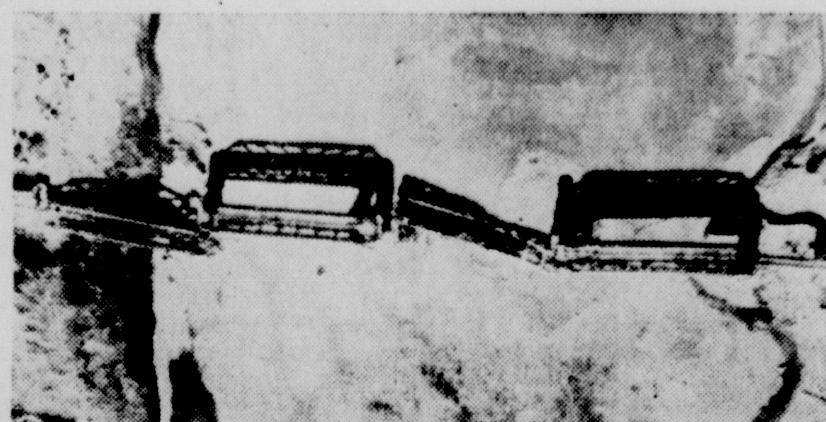

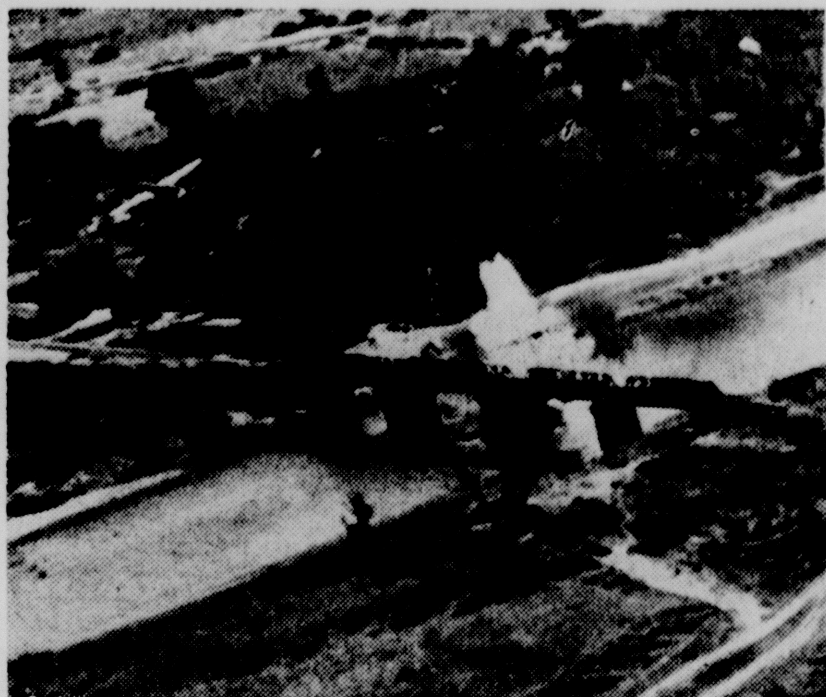

WHITESBURG, Ky., March 13.—(P)—Sheriff Gilbert Polly said an examining trial was scheduled today for John Banks, 35, charged with murder in the death of a rural mail carrier who was clubbed, robbed and buried alive. Polly reported that Banks, arrested yesterday in a woods about 25 miles southwest of Whitesburg, had admitted the slaying of Pearl Bowling, 50, Cornettsville mail carrier. The sheriff expressed doubt County Judge B. F. Wright would set bail.

Sheriff Polly said two young boys had witnessed the attack on Bowling and with the aid of a nearly resident had removed the mail carrier from a shallow grave by the roadside.

Bowling, who had been delivering a War Department telegram at the time, died a short while later. The sheriff said Bowling had met Banks when he stopped at the home of a friend, and that Banks had volunteered to accompany the carrier on his errand. Polly added Bowling's mail sack had been looted and he was robbed of about $20.

Sheriff Polly said Banks returned to Letcher County about a month ago, claiming he had been discharged from the Army to go back to his job as a coal miner.

RECONQUEST OF BURMA depends largely on the disruption of Jap lines of supply, and American airmen are seeing to it that this strategy is carried out. This vital bridge over the Mu River at Nyaungbinwun is wrecked each time the enemy rebuilds it. The structure is seen (left) before the arrival of U. S. planes. A medium bomber skims low (center) after dropping a 1,000-lb. bomb beside the target. LONDON, March 13.—(P)—The outright closing of Northern Ireland's border with Eire to give full effect to the suspension of travel between the islands of Britain and Ireland was a near-prospect today.

All reports from Belfast, Northern Ireland, said this step—which the British government could order—was regarded as inevitable as the Allies moved with hard realism to end the alleged use of neutral Eire as an Axis spy base.

GERMAN AIR FORCE
EXTERMINATION AIM
ALLIED FLIERS NOW

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, March 13.—(P)—The bombardment of all other strategic targets in Germany by the United States air force has been relegated to a back seat in favor of an all-out campaign to exterminate the German air force, it was learned today.

The U. S. strategic air force is so eager to do so—and so sure it can—that it swung into a deliberate campaign last week to tangle with the German air force head-on and left off its tactics of trying to avoid the German fighters and splitting them up by diversionary attacks.

This new extermination campaign is two-edged. When the weather is good the impact is primarily on the Germans' ground resources such as airplane factories. When the weather is bad the aim is to make attacks through the overcast so destructive the German air force will be compelled to send up fighters to oppose the Fortresses and Liberators—which can shoot them down.

A "Dr. Plot" is a suspect in the case, the Broadcast said.

Selection of Successor To McNary To Be Made

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(P)—Selection of Senator Taft (R., Ohio) as chairman of the Senate minority's "board of directors," the Republican Steering committee, apparently was in the making today. This was viewed as a move to prevent a split over the choice of a successor to the late Charles McNary, floor leader.

McNary's death left Senator White (Me.) the acting leader and although there have been demands from some young Republican members for a showdown now on a successor, the older heads want to put it off until the next Congress organizes in January.

SOMEWHERE IN RUSSIA, March 13.—(P)—A Yugoslav unit, equipped by the Red army, took allegiance here today to Marshal Tito, the partisan leader, and prepared for battle under his banner.

It is a tough-looking group, mostly seasoned fighters who previously have served in German labor battalions on the Russian front, the Italian army, the Hungarian army, or in the Yugoslav army.

About 30 from several classes of life who were interviewed said so far as they were concerned Tito was their commander, and that while King Peter might be a nice fellow "there is no place for a monarchy any more in Yugoslavia."

Hundreds of planes flew through clouds and squalls today against the continent in the Allied campaign to crush the German airforce before D-day of European invasion. Enemy radios went dead.

COLUMBUS, March 13.—(P)—A passenger train and an automobile crashed near here last night, killing eight persons and injuring two others.

The victims, all occupants of the car, were listed by the highway patrol as follows:

Mrs. Melissa Sherman, 46, and her two daughters, Betty, 14, and Lena, 12; Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons and their three children, Sherlene, Inez and a boy whose name was not available immediately. Both families lived just west of Columbus.

Patrolmen said Mrs. Sherman's husband, Louis C. Sherman, and their son, David, 5, were injured. Sherman suffered a crushed chest and internal injuries and was in critical condition, while the boy was severely cut and bruised.

The crash sliced the car in two.

Gasoline Ration Cut
Is Now in Prospect

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(P)—The possibility that basic "A" gasoline rations in the mid-west and west may be trimmed from three to two gallons a week, to match the eastern seaboard ration, was acknowledged today by Colonel Bryan Houston, deputy administrator of the Office of Price Administration.

Colonel Houston said the plan was advocated by the Petroleum Administration for War as a means of equalizing supplies over the country.

OPA's decision may be announced tomorrow, he said, if the civilian allocation of gasoline for the second quarter of the year, starting April 1, is transmitted by PAW to OPA tonight as expected.

MOTION FILED
FOR NEW TRIAL
OF MURDER CASE

Hearing Set for March 23
By Court - - Defendant
Not in Court Room

Counsel for James W. Collett, seeking a new trial for the 60-year-old Clinton County hog breeder doomed by a jury to die for the McCoy triple murders, as set Monday afternoon they had discovered evidence "impeaching" testimony of a state witness.

The motion for a new trial set forth 14 points, chiefly what the defense contended were errors by the court and the assertion that the evidence did not support the guilty verdict.

The last point struck specifically at the testimony of Rollo S. Kirk, a rebuttal witness for the State, who told the jury he saw Collett in Sabina the night of the slayings at about the same hour Collett had said he was miles away at the community of Harveysburg. Sabina is about 15 miles from the McCoy home.

In an affidavit filed with the motion, Roscoe Windross said Kirk told him last January 27 he had seen Collett in Wilmington the night of the slayings, and that several weeks later he saw Kirk conferring with Sheriff W. H. Ienhower and that Kirk then said he saw Collett in Sabina the death night.

Monday was the last day in which the defense had to file the motion for a new trial.

All three of the defense attorneys came here to file the motion, and left it with the Clerk of Courts at 1:30 P. M., after a 15 minute conference with Collett in the county jail.

The three attorneys were in the office of Judge Rankin only a few minutes, or merely long enough for the Court to fix the hearing at 10 A. M., March 23rd.

Collett was said to have "rested well" and regained most of his composure over the week-end, after an outburst carried in a signed statement Saturday, in which he berated many of those who had been instrumental in bringing him to justice.

The defense motion for a new trial contains 14 alleged reasons why a new trial should be granted.

Red Cross Drive Opens Sunday At Victory Sing

WOUNDED MAN, SGT. T. YOAKUM, MAIN SPEAKER

Nearly 1,000 Attend War Fund Opening Meeting; Goal Is $28,500

Nearly 1,000 Fayette Countians heard Sgt. Ted Yoakum, wounded American war veteran, tell how much the Red Cross meant to him and to other American soldiers Sunday afternoon in WHS auditorium at the Victory Sing opening of the Red Cross War Fund Drive here.

Sgt. Yoakum wears the Purple Heart, African Campaign, European Theater and good conduct ribbons. A bomb splinter wounded him in the right shoulder at the beginning of the Tunisian campaign when he was part of the 26th engineers.

"So many times I have heard people here in the states ask 'Just what does the Red Cross do—does it do its part and how do we know?'"

"I happen to be one of the fortunate men wounded in action who was able to get back home to the United States and I can tell you a few things the Red Cross has done for me.

"For months after my injuries sustained in the African campaign, I lay unable to move and these gallant peoples—our Red Cross workers—were constantly trying their best to make my stay there as pleasant as possible.

"First of all, they saw you were comfortable, gave us . . . cigarettes, candies, toilet articles, wrote our letters for us to folks back home and they would sit for hours reading stories.

"But the most important thing which they are doing today is collecting blood plasma which has saved many battered men and given them a new chance in their fight for life," Yoakum said.

He described the feeling a wounded soldier had, lying as he did, waiting for hours for medical attention and plasma. He told of the recreation center at Fletcher General Hospital in Cambridge where he is now being treated for his wounds. Movies, games and planned entertainment are features of the center, he said. He came to Washington C. H. on special orders from Fletcher Hospital to speak at the Sunday meeting.

Sgt. Yoakum was introduced by T. H. Craig.

John Leland, campaign manager, spoke briefly about the War Fund campaign here, explaining the need for the $28,500 goal in Fayette County is greater now with invasion of the continent approaching.

"A million casualties are expected when the invasion begins and Red Cross activities will be increased," he said, adding that a dollar will not be enough this year.

He read an excerpt from a letter written by Norman A. Armbrust, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Armbrust, prisoner of war in Germany.

"I'm feeling good and everything is all right so don't worry about anything. I'm touring Europe which is something I've always wanted to do but not under these conditions. But it's free so I shouldn't kick. The country over here is surely pretty.

"I have met a few old friends of mine. The Red Cross sure is doing a wonderful job so don't forget them. I know I never will again. Go see the Red Cross and they can give you all the information about everything.

"Well, tell everyone 'hello' for me and that I'm all right. Please don't worry as everything is O.K. now."

It was estimated that at least three-fourths of all the workers in the townships and wards were present to receive materials from the ward and township chairmen at separate meetings in classrooms after the sing.

The three groups of songs were directed by Paul Fitzwater, with Mrs. Fitzwater at the piano and Mrs. Ralph Gage at the organ. The high school girls' glee club sang three numbers, "Pledge to the Flag," "This Is My Country" and "Angels of Mercy," directed by Miss Mary Elizabeth Browning.

COURT STREET SCENE OF CRASH EXTRAORDINARY

Columbus Driver's Car Cuts Capers in Front of Court House

An automobile driven by Lafayette Gibson, colored, of Columbus, who was accompanied by his wife, cut some curious capers on Court Street—and the sidewalk—Sunday about 10 A. M., before finally coming to rest on the south side of the street in front of the Kroger Market, minus its battery, and otherwise badly damaged by coming in contact with a cement block on the lawn at sidewalk leading to the Court House. Police gave this account:

LeRoy Burris, optometrist, was driving west on Court Street, and sought to park at the curb across from the Court House near the alley on the east side of the Court House grounds.

As he swung slightly to the left before turning in to park, Gibson, headed in the same direction, and being the second car back of Burris, sought to swing to the right and pass on the right side.

Burris parked at the curb, and about that time Gibson's car struck the front part of his car as Gibson swung upon the sidewalk in front of the Court House lawn.

The Gibson car careened down the sidewalk, crashed into one of the cement blocks at the north edge of the sidewalk then ran down the sidewalk, back into Court Street, crossed the street and finally came to rest in front of the Kroger store.

The battery was torn from the car and fragments scattered over the street. One tire was blown out and the car was otherwise damaged.

No one was injured, and the Burris car was not badly damaged.

Police investigated the crash but no charges were filed, although police said it was evident Gibson did not have his car under control.

He told police when Burris swung to the left he thought Burris was going to turn into the alley next to Craig's store on the south side of the street.

Gibson and his wife were en route to a church here.

ed, chief of which is "newly discovered evidence."

This alleged reason reads: "Newly discovered evidence material to the defendant and which he could not with reasonable diligence have discovered and produced at the trial and which neither he nor his counsel had any knowledge of prior to the verdict, refuting the claim of the State of Ohio as shown by the testimony of the witness Rollo S. The affidavit states that Roscoe Windross of near Cuba says he was with Rollo S. Kirk at the McCoy sale January 27 and at the sale Kirk told Windross he had seen Collett in Wilmington the night of the murder after dark. Several weeks later at a stock sale at the Wilmington Fair Grounds, Windross saw Kirk talking with

Finland's Ace Diplomat in Limelight

Reports of Russo-Finnish peace talks bring into the headlines again one of Finland's ablest diplomats who knows the Russians well, Dr. Juhani Kusti Paasikivi.

The 72-year-old former cabinet member has been dealing with Russians for nearly a quarter of a century. He vanished from the public view when Finland joined Germany in 1941 in war on Russia.

Sturdily built and stern-faced, Dr. Paasikivi is reported to have the respect of Joseph Stalin even though he once stood up to him and said "no."

A former senator and a member of the old Finnish party, Dr. Paasikivi was a member of the Finnish delegation to the Dorpat conference with Russia in 1920 at which the Soviet recognized the independence of the little Scandinavian republic.

Trusted Russians

It may be that Dr. Paasikivi acquired some stature in the eyes of the Russians then, for he told

'DYNAMIC ECONOMY' URGED BY BRICKER

BOSTON, March 13.—(P)—A "dynamic economy" designed to provide employment through private industry without federal assistance is the only solution to the domestic problems of post-war America, according to Governor John W. Bricker (D-Ohio).

In Boston yesterday, the tall, silver-haired candidate for the Republican presidential nomination suggested state and local governments should aid private industry and that conference regulation would be necessary to prevent abuses.

"There is a vast difference between regulation and regimentation," Bricker emphasized, in an address prepared for delivery before the Boston University Institute on Post-war Problems.

"Political ownership or management of agriculture, commerce and industry has no place in our free economy, x x x"

The Ohio governor declared "a balanced federal budget at the earliest possible date would create more jobs than all the projects government can devise."

Ohio Governor Says Private Industry Essential

It was at the peace conference in March of 1940 he is said to have won Stalin's respect.

At least, he was appointed minister to Moscow the next month when diplomatic relations were restored, and the Kremlin approved his appointment.

Finland thoughtfully recalled him in the spring of 1941 and he was not on hand when the little country joined the Nazis in the attack on Russia.

Scandinavian observers were not surprised then when he turned up recently in Stockholm to confer with the Russian minister. They consider him the most logical man to enter into negotiations.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

London's prompt imposition of severe travel restrictions between Britain and South Ireland was a fully anticipated, corollary to Eire's refusal to grant America's request that German and Japanese diplomatic and consular representatives be expelled.

While it was Washington which made the overture to neutral Eire, Britain strongly backed it. The point is that enemy agents have been acting under cover of their legations and consulates to pass military information back home. General Eisenhower, supreme commander of Allied Western invasion forces, says these Axis operations are a serious menace.

The travel restriction is a heavy blow to the economic life of Eire, for Britain is a vital market for Ireland's cattle and other products. Even more grievous trouble may be in the offing for Eire, however. The British press forecasts curtailment of essential supplies from England and America. An appeal by Dublin to Australia to intervene with Washington has brought the reply that Australia fully supports Uncle Sam's stand.

I'm constantly being asked by Americans, including folk of Irish descent, just why Eire should cling so tightly to her neutrality. This is especially puzzling to many because Ireland's shield against danger from the continent of Europe is the island which comprises the United Kingdom, and Eire's ties with America are strong.

Dublin's neutrality has deprived the Anglo-American Allies of naval bases with the result that the war has been lengthened and Allied lives and shipping have been lost. We have needed little Eire's help badly. Why then has she stood out?

Well, I've spent a lot of time in lovely Ireland. I know her hospitable folk and have enjoyed their bounty. It was an Irishman who, on one desperate night of revolution, risked his life to save mine. So while I haven't discovered any legitimate arguments to support Eire's continued neutrality, yet I know her well enough to understand what has impelled her to cling to this position.

The basic reason is Eire's bitterness towards everything English.

So powerful is this feeling in the heart of the average southern Irishman that he would sacrifice himself rather than give aid to England. Of course, not all citizens of Eire feel that way. Some 200,000 are fighting with the British forces, and others are lending their support. Still, the majority of the southern Irish want nothing to do with the English.

Probably Premier DeValera, whom I have known for many years on a most friendly basis, would spank me for the assertion about hatred. He would say that the security of Ireland has depended on neutrality. However, I think the support which his people are giving him in this stand is due to their anti-English feeling.

We must remember that only twenty-eight years ago came Easter, Southern Ireland was in rebellion against England. That was bloody Easter week—and bloody it was. I was there as a reporter. DeValera himself was one of the leaders of that revolt, and was pardoned after being condemned to death. Then followed years of fierce conflict between the Irish and the British armed constabulary.

Many of the present generation of southern Irish lived through this period. And back of that were hundreds of years of strife between Ireland and England. Those things aren't forgotten overnight.

Eire undoubtedly would say her heart is with the Allied cause. But she feels strongly, and her heart isn't with John Bull.

The termites have a cousin, the "Squander Bug." Termites will undermine a house, gnawing at its wooden underpinnings until it's ready to topple. The "Squander Bug" uses the same system, chewing your dollars until he undermines your savings, your security. But he can be exterminated. You can do it yourself—by investing all you can in War Bonds.

POST-WAR PLAN IS DRAFTED BY STATE BUREAU

Neighborly Competition With Wilmington Remains For People Here

Washington C. H. is one of 28 cities in Ohio for which the State Bureau of Aeronautics, in co-operation with the Civil Aeronautics Administration, has recommended class 3 and 4 airports, large enough to handle all commercial airline equipment, a report just released disclosed.

Just what the next move will be is conjectural, but the general impression has been that the cities themselves will have to take the initiative in establishing the facilities.

Several months ago, the Rotary and Lions clubs formed a joint committee to investigate the possibilities for an airport for Washington C. H. Several trips were made to the state Bureau of Aeronautics headquarters in Columbus and to the Army Air Forces headquarters at Wright Field. No formal report of the results ever was made but several members of the group said privately that prospects for getting either government financial help or aid from the army during wartime were not bright. They also expressed the belief that it would be up to the people of the community served to undertake the responsibility and much of the expense.

Establishment of an airport here was one of the main points on the now dormant Chamber of Commerce program. Indications are, however, that it will come in for serious consideration by the recently formed Committee for Economic Development.

When the Clinton County Airport was taken over by the Army Air Forces and developed with buildings and runways, little attempt was made by those interested in an airport for Washington C. H. to hide their discouragement. There was the feeling among several that the neighboring city had "got the jump on us," as one expressed it and that it might be more difficult to get government aid here for an airport. There also was the feeling that commercial airlines might feel an airport at Wilmington could serve this community too.

However, while competition with Wilmington for air service remains, the state bureau's report brightens the outlook here considerably by saying:

"Washington C. H., together with Wilmington, are ideally open to debate as to airline possibilities.

But Washington C. H. plans an ultimate class 3 (next to largest) airport and the airport developed by the army at Wilmington, with, in all probability, revert to civilian use since it is quite partly upon the old Clinton County Airport (a CAA intermediate field).

"With these two airports available, here are two prosperous farming centers, and some industrial development, that are near to larger cities, but which are more or less isolated, with poor transportation. Located directly on an airway, there is no reason why it would not pay an airline company to stop at both communities.

The old County infirmary farm has been surveyed and an airport plan laid out on blueprints by the state bureau, now under the Rotary-Lions committee had to do with this is obscure because no report on its activities ever was made. It probably is this to which the state bureau refers in its report that "Washington C. H. plans an ultimate class 3 airport."

That air service is coming after the war and that Washington C. H. is included in plans for its development in Ohio—providing the facilities are made available—is apparent in the bureau's report. The survey by a company for placing Washington C. H. on an air mail line is another obvious indication.

The state bureau's broad outline, recommends eleven "super-terminals," 28 regularly scheduled airline stops and 184 strategically located airports to handle post-war airplane traffic in Ohio.

Besides the 28 Class 3 and 4 airports, large enough to handle all commercial airline equipment, communities of under 25,000 population will require 156 Class 1 and 2 fields for limited civilian operations, the report maintained. In addition to the 28 Ohio airline stops, five airports in neighboring states would provide service to certain borderline Ohio communities under the plan.

Program Outlined

Besides Columbus, cities which should have Class 4 airports, "super-terminals" with runways over 4500 feet long are Springfield, Wilmington, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Toledo, Youngstown-Warren, Dayton, Zanesville, Mansfield and Akron-Canton, according to the report.

Smaller airports, with runways of 3500 to 4500 feet, designed for airline operations in communities of over 25,000 population, should be located at the following cities, the bureau recommended:

Ashtabula-Conneaut, Athens, Bryan-Defiance, Chillicothe, Elyria-Lorain, Findlay, Gallipolis, Hamilton-Middletown, Lima, Marion, Newark, New Philadelphia, Portsmouth, Sandusky, Steubenville, Washington C. H. and Wooster.

Of the cities for which Class 3 and 4 airports are proposed, seven are now airline stops—Akron-Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo and Youngstown. A terminus at Huntington, W. Va., also serves some Ohio cities, including Ironton.

Applications On File

Of the remaining 21 proposed airline stops, nine are now included in post-war plans of major airlines, with applications for terminal points at these locations now on file in Washington. These cities are Hamilton-Middletown, Lima, Mansfield, Marion, Newark, Portsmouth, Springfield, Steubenville and Zanesville.

Although as yet no airline has applied for routes to the 12 other cities, the bureau feels that the population of these areas would warrant airline stops there.

Athens and surrounding communities, the bureau said, are relatively inaccessible, thus should give good patronage to airline service. The cities of Bryan and Defiance, where a Class A airport is now in its initial stages, are in the center of a rich agricultural area and have manufacturing plants.

Chillicothe, a manufacturing city with two federal institutions, would draw airline business from Circleville and other surrounding towns.

A Findlay airport would provide service for residents of Kenton, Fostoria, Tiffin and smaller cities. Gallipolis would serve Middle-

"(3) To locate airports where they will provide the utmost utility. Separate communities can join together to provide a single airport equally accessible to all users, at a great reduction in capital investment."

Besides the main airports in larger cities, several auxiliary or satellite fields are necessary, the bureau pointed out. Special studies in each metropolitan area such as Columbus should be made to determine the kind of supplemental fields which should be built or expanded.

nese back from minor gains won during a violent eruption of heavy fighting on the Empress Augusta Bay battlefield.

The raid on Wewak, one of the heaviest in weeks, left gun positions smashed, fuel and supply areas burning. In addition to the 26 planes shot down, Japanese probably lost six others and several parked planes were destroyed, MacArthur said. Two American planes failed to return.

Wide-ranging air and sea craft accounted for 23 Japanese barges, patrol boats and small coastal ships along the rim of the Bismarck Sea. At least two of the barges were filled with troops.

Rabaul, New Britain, was hit with 91 tons of explosives, other planes supported ground operations on Los Negros Island in the Admiralties and in the Central Pacific, American planes raided four undesignated atolls in the eastern Marshalls Friday.

American transport planes have flown more than 125,000 casualties from combat zones since Pearl Harbor.

Plans Considered

"This plan is not presented for immediate construction in its entirety," the bureau emphasized. "Rather, it is an ultimate plan, to be developed as the need for the facilities become apparent or can be anticipated."

"The second factor to consider is that each airport need not be initially developed to the degree shown on the plan. But any development undertaken should be on a site sufficiently large to accommodate the ultimate facility, and developed in such a manner that extension is feasible."

"The airport can thus be developed in easy stages, even starting with a single flight strip, progressing from this humble start to the degree of development shown on the plan."

Class 1 airports, having landing strips of 1800 to 2500 feet in length and designed to accommodate light aircraft, were proposed for 98 communities or "multiple communities"—those located close enough together to make one field serve for two or more towns.

Class 2 airports were proposed for 58 towns. These would have 2500 to 3500-foot runways and could accommodate all single engine civilian aircraft and light multi-engine planes.

Reasons Outlined

The statewide airport plan was developed for three reasons, the bureau said:

"(1) To prevent overbuilding. There is no reason for a community to burden itself with airport facilities in excess of its needs. Adoption of too-ambitious plans will really serve no purpose.

"(2) To prevent under-building. Many communities have had to abandon airports because they Irishmen on the train—mainly laborers—were strongly against De Valera.

The British were leaving the initiative largely to the United States because of the ancient feud with the Irish, and for other practical considerations:

Collett Trial Sanely Handled

Much favorable comment has been heard from outside observers regarding the efficient manner in which the Collett trial was handled in Washington C. H.

The dignified and speedy manner in which justice made itself felt, quickly but firmly, and the fact that this case was handled with a minimum of sensationalism, speaks well for Fayette County.

This crime tragedy which aroused interest over the whole nation and in other parts of the world, was of a nature that was certain to lead to much publicity. Under such circumstances the trial could have been turned into a Roman holiday with a huge amount of showmanship by those involved in carrying it on. But to their credit it should be noted that this was not done and that conservative, sensible and sane action was the guiding rule.

Along this line in demonstrating how others have watched this situation with special interest, we here quote from a Sunday's Columbus Dispatch editorial which indicates the impression made beyond the confines of this immediate locality. This editorial said:

"Central Ohio's most noteworthy murder trial in several years has come to its logical conclusion with a speed and an application of even-handed justice which adds more luster to the fine reputation of the courts of this section for dignified and efficient handling of intrinsically sensational cases of this kind in recent years."

There was every opportunity in this instance for the degeneration of the trial into the kind of three-ring circus which jurists in other sections of the country tolerate with seeming complacency. There was no hippodrome aura made about these proceedings such as made the Hauptmann and Hall-Mills cases in New Jersey travesties or such as has surrounded the current attempts in New York to try Wayne Lonergan for wife murder. Spread eagle oratory and heated courtroom dramatics doubtless will always be in vogue until zealous prosecutors and criminal lawyers change their habits. These are a part of the American pattern in contrast to the admirable British practice which keeps the utterances and actions of counsel within bounds of rigid decorum. But there were no cheering or booing spectators, exhibitionist witnesses summoned deliberately to bedevil the issue, or any of the other trappings which all too frequently cause real-life trials to resemble those in Class B movies.

"As to the outcome, there is virtually no room for doubt but that justice was done. The evidence was clear, convincing and led to an inevitable conclusion as was evidenced by the remarkably short time the jury deliberated. The neighbors of the man on trial who served on the jury deserve high praise for their forthright performance of a distasteful but necessary duty."

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—In spite of complaints to Congress and the War Production Board that the printing of Bibles is being blocked, the printing of Bibles is being blocked.

Harried officials in the printing and paper section at WPB say most of the complaints come from civilians who want oversized, annotated or illuminated Bibles. There is a shortage in these editions. Nor can missionary societies get wholesale lots printed in Hotentot. The lack of paper and manpower simply won't permit it. But just about there, the Bible "shortage" ends.

According to Rep. Marion T. Bennett of Missouri, who has made a survey of Bibles in the armed services, more than 11,000,000 pocket-size Bibles have been issued already by just three agencies—and that doesn't take into account the millions given by individuals, churches and sectional religious societies.

It's a safe statement that the armed forces have received for distribution more Bibles than there are men and women in uniform. And there isn't any diminishing supply today despite curtailment of some editions for civilians. Losses, destruction and wear, of course, account for the surplus. According to the American Bible Society, the supply still is barely keeping up with the demand.

The ABS, by private subscription, and through its own printing facilities, has distributed, since Pearl Harbor, 3,312,000 pocket-size Bibles to the armed forces. It also has supplied a half million more in 38 languages to prisoners of war. Gideon International, famous for putting Bibles in hotel rooms, has distributed about 3,000,000. In addition, the government has distributed more than 4,600,000 and 1,250,000 more are rolling off the presses just as fast as the Government Printing Office can turn them out.

These last, called "G.I. Bibles," are for Army use only; the other services get theirs from other sources. According to Cong. Bennett, the "G.I. Bible" isn't as big a hit with soldiers as some others, being "larger, heavier and of an inconvenient size."

All of the Bibles are prepared in Protestant and other versions. Dr. Francis C. Stifler, editorial secretary of ABS, proudly reports his society has established a printing "assembly line" for Bibles and has more than quadrupled its output since Pearl Harbor.

Eminently Reasonable

The oil industry, in urging the formulation of a foreign oil policy by our government without further delay, touches on a question of direct interest to everyone in this country. A representative of the oil industry recently pointed out that: "The need for such a long-term policy becomes immediately apparent when we consider the fact that in 1943 the United States produced two-thirds of the world's oil from only one-third of the known reserves of the world, while the other two-thirds of the world's oil reserves, principally in the Near East, produced only one-third of the oil. Likewise in 1943, for the sixth successive year, we found less new oil than we produced. . . ."

Nowhere else in the world do facilities exist capable of the output of our oil industry. Without our oil industry, the cause of the United Nations would at best be a dubious one. But for the efforts of the men who devised the organizations and equipment under a system of free enterprise, that are today producing millions of barrels of oil every twenty-four hours to keep the fighting machines running, the grand military strategy of the statesmen would be of little avail. Victory in this war depends upon oil.

The oil industry has given the nation oil. It now asks that it be given access to the world's oil reserves on equal terms with the nationals of other nations, and that it be allowed to continue operation free of competition from our own government.

Childhood Habits Determine Trends

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

PARENTAL worries are about one-quarter in the field of the physical condition of their offspring; about three-quarters in the psychological sphere. In the field of habit these fuse; habit can make physical deformities and disorders; as well as psychological troubles—misbehavior and emotional patterns.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

If any parents under estimate the importance of controlling habits, let them listen to the philosophers. "Plato," records the Seigneur de Montaigne, "did once chide a child for playing with nuts who answered him—'Thou chidest me for a small matter.' 'Habit,' replied Plato, 'is no small matter.' And Epictetus—'If you want to do something make a habit of it: If you want not to do something refrain from doing it ten times.'"

And to be underlined for parents—"We sow our thoughts, and we reap our actions: we sow our actions, and we reap our habits: we sow our habits, and we reap our characters: we sow our characters, and we reap our destiny."

Effects of Habits

And destiny is no small thing. It goes all the way from being elected President of the United States to being hung on the scaffold. It decides whether you will be round-shouldered or erect. Whether or not a nail-biter, a face-jerker, a nose-picker, a clothes-twister, a lisper. Whether you take a long or a short time to go to sleep, whether you gulp your food, or dawdle over your food. And if you dawdle over your food your wife may get sore and leave you. And that brother, is destiny.

All of these things, with the possible exception of being President of the United States or being hung, depend upon habits laid down in childhood. Parents have the material when it is malleable—they can inculcate good habits, or allow bad habits to develop.

Coming down to the purely physical I am impressed with the influence of habit on posture. And this is so much dependent on parental precept and example. Round shoulders, stooping posture, curvature of the spine, slouching, all are laid down in the formative years.

I see so many soldiers on the street with very unsoldierly stooped-over carriage. Even the drill sergeants haven't been able to drive out this habit.

Good Habits For Bad

There is no such thing as eliminating bad habits, because Nature abhors a vacuum. You have to put a good habit in its place. Again to revert to the philosophers, Erasmus said—"A nail is driven out by another nail, habit is overcome by habit." This is not always so easy and demands a study of the motive and origin of the habit. With such a thing as nail-biting you have a difficult task. With the cry baby, it can be seen that he cries because experience has taught him he gets something that way; break the circle, and make him substitute a smile for a whine and you go a long way towards stopping the whining.

Dr. Hurlock, in her valuable Modern Ways With Children, tells of an instance of a boy who dined over his food. His aunt determined to break him of it, found he did it because it drew attention to him. So at table she said—"I am surprised you eat so slowly. My little girl can eat as fast as I can, and she is only your age." He began to ask how long it took her to eat a baked potato, her cereal, a chop, etc. When he found he got attention and favorable comment for eating quickly he quit dawdling.

SCRAP SALE OF ARMY TOOLS IS PROTESTED

$1,700,000 Worth Sell for $37,000

TOLEDO, Mar. 13—(P)—Lieut. Col. R. E. Cook, Toledo, who protested the sale in Detroit of $1,700,000 in Army Air Force cutting tools for $37,000, has been granted permission to go on inactive reserve status April 1, he announced last night in a statement issued through his wife.

In his statement he said that orders to sell these special tools as scrap came from "higher authorities" about August 1, 1943. I felt certain these orders were in error. He said he issued instructions the tools were not to be sold as scrap.

"These instructions have never been revoked by me to this date," said the statement.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

"You look like a bright boy," said Argus. "Maybe you can answer a few questions." The boy looked at him vacantly.

"For instance?" he mumbled through protruding front teeth.

"For instance, was the hall of the penthouse painted recently?"

"Yep. Monday morning. Miss Verne wanted it done."

"Good. Next: Did you see a red-headed man go up to Miss Verne's apartment, yesterday?"

"Nope."

"How about a man with a red beard?" Ellen quipped jokingly.

"Yep," said the boy. "But he didn't go to the penthouse."

"No? Where did he go?" Argus asked eagerly.

"Don't remember. I just know it wasn't the penthouse."

"Can you describe him?"

"Waal, he wore glasses and had his coat pulled up, but I seen his beard."

"Had you ever seen him before?"

"Nope."

"Was he carrying anything? A parcel or a suitcase or—?"

"Yep. He had a suitcase. I started to help him, but he didn't want any."

"Did you see him come out again?"

"Nope."

"What time was that?"

"Around six. I just came on duty."

"Last night?" Argus asked.

"Did you talk to him?"

"Nope."

"Can you tell me anything else about him?"

"Yep. He limped."

Argus looked at Ellen and raised his brows.

"Was he tall or short?" the detective asked.

The elevator boy turned to look at Argus. "Like you," he said.

"Tall," said Ellen.

"Waal—so-so," said the boy.

"Did you take anyone up to Miss Verne's apartment yesterday?"

"Miss Verne."

"Anyone besides her?"

"Nope."

"What time did she return home?"

"Just before midnight."

"Alone?"

"Yep. She was sore about something."

"Sixth."

"What time did he come in on Monday?"

"Late."

"How late?" Argus persisted.

"Two, I guess."

"And his son, did you see him?"

The boy gave him a peculiar look. Argus handed him a bill.

"Nope, not since he went out at 6:30—Monday."

"Keep this little talk to yourself," he said. "Understand, son?"

"O.K."

"About the man with the beard. Didn't it look to you as if he were trying to disguise himself—beard—glasses and all?"

"Nope. My grandfather had a beard and wore glasses."

"Not a red beard, surely," put in Ellen.

"It turned gray," said the boy.

"My!" said Ellen. "How did your grandmother like it?"

"Never said."

"Was Miss Verne home over the week end?" Argus asked.

"Nope."

"Was she usually away over the week end?"

"Yep."

"Ever say where she was going or where she'd been?"

"Nope."

Argus and Ellen stepped off the elevator. "You're from Vermont, aren't you?" the detective asked over his shoulder.

The boy looked at him in astonishment. "Yep," he said. "How'd you know?"

Argus smiled: "I just guessed."

When they were on the street, Ellen asked: "Where do we go from here?"

"A friend of mine, who lives on the next block, has a laboratory where he carries on experiments. It's sort of a hobby with him. I figured we might drop over and have him take a look at the red hair I found and see what he can tell me about it."

"You think it might have some connection with the bearded man the elevator boy took up Monday night?"

"Maybe."

"What about that gun in the air-conditioning machine? Are you going to tell the police about it?" Ellen asked.

"Presently. But for the time being, don't mention it to anyone. We mustn't let the murderer know we've found it," he cautioned.

"Argus, you said Syria was murdered by telephone—what did you mean?"

"It's quite technical, honey. Think you could understand it?"

Ellen pushed him.

"You remember there was a wire leading to the air-conditioning machine from the bell box of the phone?"

"Yes," said Ellen.

"Well, I imagine if I were to take that bell box apart, I'd find the wire connected with the phone wire itself, in such a way that the ringing of the phone bell or the lifting of the receiver completed an electrical circuit which started up the air-conditioner."

"So what?" asked Ellen.

"So the first couple of revolutions the fan blower made, the cord tied to the trigger would be drawn taut and then—" Argus clapped both hands together loudly to signify an explosion.

"Then all anyone would have to do would be to telephone Syria or wait for her to pick up the receiver and she'd be shot."

"That's the way it looks," Argus agreed. "Come to think of it, it would have to be fixed so that the lifting of the receiver does the trick, not the ringing of the bell."

"Say," said Ellen. "Bill Carstairs' phoning her in the Penguin Club last night becomes more significant."

"This is it," said Argus, stopping in front of a renovated brownstone building. "I hope he's home."

The detective pressed the bell with a gloved thumb. A metallic clicking sound rewarded his effort. He pushed open the heavy front door. A white-haired man poked his head out of a rear apartment.

"Who is it?" he asked in a high-pitched voice.

"Hello, Hanks. It's Argus Steele and friend."

"Argus! I haven't seen you in years. Why do you desert your old friends?"

"This is Miss Curtis, Mr. Hanks."

"Glad to meet you, my dear," the elderly man said. "Come in, won't you?"

"I was afraid we might wake you up at this hour," Argus said.

"No. I'm conducting a little experiment. . . . His voice trailed on as he led them into a large, high-ceilinged room filled with tubes and glass containers."

"I use this as my workshop," Hanks explained. "My living quarters are in the back. I don't have much in the house but beer."

"Don't bother," said Ellen.

"It's no bother," said Hanks. "I just dropped in to have you take a look at something for me—" and Argus brought up the subject of the red hair. Hanks gaped, fussed with some oblong pieces of glass slides. He placed the hair between them and studied it through a microscope. Finally he peered at them over the rims of his glasses.

Argus asked, "Can you tell whether it was used in a false beard?"

"I'll try to tell you in a minute," said Hanks, resuming his examination. "Son, he announced, 'It's real human hair and definitely belongs to a xanthous person, but maculiginous traces at the root suggests its use in a wig.' He looked up with a smile of accomplishment."

"Many thanks, old man," said Argus, who then told a few details about the death of Syria and Cynthia, after which he and Ellen bade the old man good night.

"He's nice," said Ellen. "I'd like to see him more often. By the way, you never did tell me the significance of finding green paint on Cynthia Lane's coat and in Syria Verne's hallway."

Argus grinned as he remarked, "I'll bet right now that Cynthia Lane was

Mt. Sterling Bowlers Lead Close Race in City League

The Mt. Sterling boys rolled along at the head of the procession in the Men's City League after last week's bowling on the Main Street alleys. The plugging Coca Colas held second place as the 26th round of matches came up this week and the scrappy Pure Oilers and Jeffersonville's Ringers were tied for third place. Pennington's Bakers were fairly well entrenched in fourth place and the Producers were out of immediate danger from the next-to-last Stone Crushers when Melvin and the tail-end Slagle and Kirk outfit after last week's round.

Competition has become considerably tougher in the Women's City League as Lloyd's Markettes and Light's Dairymaids started another week deadlocked at the top of the standing. While they held a comfortable lead for their private feud, the next three teams, the Farmerettes, Hawkinson Treaders and Craig's Airsteppers, were closely bunched behind them. The Record-Herald Newsgirls, who sat alone in the cellar for so long, have finally climbed into sixth position above the faltering Business and Professional Women and the Morris Store girls.

The Foremen were ready for their 14th round firmly entrenched at the top of the API Men's League and the Production crew had just about as good a hold on the No. 2 spot. The Production Controllers and Office Boys started the week with a tie for third place and the two teams of Inspectors and Engineers were even-ally ahead of the last place Heat Treaters.

The API Women's League top is all tied up with the Gremlins, who have frittered away a long lead, and the Aeronauts deadlocked. The Spitfires and B-19s and P-38s were having a close race behind the two toppers and the Gliders were still trailing after 23 matches.

Every Man a King

In Napoleon's armies every soldier was said to carry a field marshal's baton in his knapsack. In America every mother dreams of her boy as a possible future president. In modern democratic society, too, every man is "Mister." This was corrupted from "master" which is an abbreviation of "magister," meaning one who rules, commands, governs or sets the law.

Down the years the common man has come to share most of the rights and privileges once reserved for the few. This is especially true in democracies. Recent events have jeopardized some of this progress and it is a time for vigilance.

One basic mark of democratic equality is the right to be put on notice, that is, to be notified when one's rights will be affected by an action planned by another. This right belongs as much to the humblest citizen as to the president. In a democracy, in other words, every man is king. Should this right ever be seriously or permanently impaired, democracy cannot long survive.

Competition To Be Closer In Baseball

By TED MIER

NEW YORK, March 13.—(P)—The start of spring training officially opened baseball's third wartime season today.

The departure of stars into the Army, Navy, Marines and Merchant Marine while reducing the quality of play is expected by club owners to make more competition. They do not look, for instance, for the St. Louis Cardinals to again win the National League by 18 games over Cincinnati or for the Yankees to sweep to another American League flag by the 13½ games they did last year over Washington.

The champion Yankees already have lost such players as Charley Keller, Bill Johnson, Marius Russo, Ken Sears and Roy Weatherly and, in addition, face the probable loss of Joe Gordon, Spud Chandler, Bill Dickey, Johnny Murphy and Rollie Hemsey.

American League

Atlantic City—(Yankees)—Only two players, pitchers Floyd Bevens and Johnny Hohnson, on hand as Yank officials arrived.

Frederick, Md., (A's)—Boob Estalilla, traded to Indianapolis, during winter with A's because Jojo Moore, for whom he was swapped, has been drafted. Outfielder Rip Radcliffe also may play part of season.

WILSON'S HARDWARE BUILDERS' SUPPLY & LUMBER DIVISION

We are prepared to supply the trade this year with the new stripper type concrete building block—made in our plant here—They are lighter to handle—are perfect in form—no right or wrong sides; simply pick them up and lay them. Block layers say they are much nicer and easier to lay than the old type down face machined block. Walls, both sides are the same, therefore, perfect. MORE RACCOONS FREED HERE BY ASSOCIATION

Members of the Fayette County Coon Hunters Association today were patting themselves on the back, figuratively speaking, after completing their first project with greater success than even the most optimistic had hoped for.

Sunday, they distributed the last of 45 raccoons the association had bought from a Florida dealer at approximately $7 apiece. They were set free in suitable locations in all parts of the county where they could mingle with the native animals. Members of the association expressed the belief that the new blood would eventually lead to stronger 'coons here.

Sunday 22 'coons, most of them females, in an assortment of sizes and ages were loosed. The previ-

RED BOSS OPTIMISTIC FOR ONCE

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 13.—(P)—Deacon Bill McKeechie, ultra-conservative manager of the Cincinnati Reds whose wagering is confined to such shots as the possibility of the Ohio River's passing through the Queen City at 4 P. M. on any given Tuesday, today advanced the thought that his Reds "might" finish no worse than third in the National League race.

Here for today's opening of spring training in the University of Indiana fieldhouse, Deacon Bill allowed:

"The St. Louis Cards are the team to beat, but if they're going to be stopped, either the Chicago Cubs or the Reds will be the team to stop them." He then held the floor long enough to build a neat hedge with:

"We already have lost two key men (Lonnie Frey and Johnny Vander Meer) and we expect to lose some more, but right now I think our roster stacks up pretty well with the rest of the league." (The Reds have been picked by a majority of the experts to cop the 1944 National League pennant.)

Big Frank McCormick, the Reds' first sacker last year, announced his draft board put him in 1-A.

Eight members of last year's second-place team reported for workout at 9:30 this morning. They are Buckey Walters, Eddie Miller, McCormick, Joe Beggs, Estel Crabtree, Eric Tipton, Woody Williams and Ray Mueller.

taxation was accepted in political circles as the first step towards drawing the 1944 GOP plan on taxes.

Terming the present tax system a "hopelessly impossible" basis for postwar levies, House Republican Leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts announced appointment of the committee last night, naming Rep. Dan A. Reed of New York chairman.

While some congressional leaders are of the opinion postwar tax policies can not be drawn now, others of both parties have shown active concern for post-war revenue problems. Among the latter group are Chairman George (D-Ga.) and Senators Byrd (D-Va.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.) of the Senate finance committee.

The only Ohioan of the committee on postwar taxation is Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironton.

BRICKER IN BOSTON FOR POST-WAR MEET

To Be in New England from Saturday To Tuesday

BOSTON, March 13.—(P)—Governor John W. Bricker (R) of Ohio, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, is scheduled to arrive in New England today to attend Boston University's weekend "Institute On Post War Problems."

He will leave his train at Worcester, Mass., this noon and travel by automobile to Providence, R. I., to speak at a dinner given by the Rhode Island Republican State Central Committee.

The governor's Sunday schedule will include a visit to Massachusetts' Governor Leverett Saltonstall's home, a radio address, and an evening meeting at Boston University.

The greater part of Monday will spent at sessions of the "Institute On Post War Problems." The Ohio governor will end his New England visit after a Springfield, Mass., speech Tuesday noon.

BOY KILLED BY TRAIN

MARION, March 13.—(P)—James McDowell, 7-year-old son of Mrs. Olive McDowell, was killed yesterday when he ran into the path of a Chesapeake and Ohio locomotive.

Maine was part of Massachusetts until 1820.

Russians Near Rumania

The Red army battled today to within 22 miles of the big Nazi base of Kherson in the lower Dnieper River, Moscow announced, after slaying 5,000 Germans yesterday to bring to more than 60,000 the number declared killed in eight days of the massive southern offensive.

The Russians swept up 210 more communities yesterday, slashing the Proskurov-Gusyat railway leading into Rumania and Hungary and storming into Galvoron on the middle Bug River, 50 miles from Rumania and close to one of the few intact railways left the Germans in southern Rumania, a Soviet communique said.

Yugoslav partisans commanded by an American officer captured the port of Pucisce on Brac Island 10 miles southeast of Split. British warships sank two vessels in the Adriatic.

Allied artillery increased the shelling of the Germans ringing the Anzio beachhead below Rome. Weather prevented large scale fighting on all the three points and limited Allied air action. British planes hit two German ships off the Spanish coast. Pope Pius XII appealed to both sides Sunday to spare Rome and strive for a "peace of liberation."

Hitler shunned German Heroes Day speechmaking and Admiral Karl Doenitz substituted with these melancholy words: "A pitiless struggle is being waged for the existence or annihilation of our nation."

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, March 13.—(AP)—Trade in rye futures featured the grain market today, prices upward in generally quiet trade. Oats and barley were firm with rye, but wheat was steady. The late advance in rye uncovered little pressure.

Rye, which was weak with wheat in earlier trade, strengthened in reflection of a trade report that said Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), head of the Senate subcommittee investigating the alcohol situation, predicted that the War Production Board would sanction distillation of some liquor shortly after the committee filed its report. Nothing was said as to when the report would be ready.

Steady near the close, wheat finished unchanged to ¼ higher than the previous close, May 1.17½, July 1.16½, rye was up ½, to 1 cent, May 1.29½, and barley showed gains of 1½ to 1¼, May 1.12½.

DR. CECIL HAYS EN ROUTE HOME FROM NAZI CAMP

Will Reach Jersey City March
15 After Long
Imprisonment

Dr. Cecil Hays, also known as Dr. C. Rodgers Hays, former Fayette County resident who had resided in Paris, France, for some 20 years, but who for the past two years has been interned in a German concentration camp in France, is en route to Washington C. H.

Hays, brother of Orland Hays, of Clinton Avenue, is aboard the M. P. Gripsholm, along with several hundred other American citizens who have been interned in France most of the time since it was occupied by the Germans, will reach Jersey City, N. J., March 15, and it is expected that he will come immediately to this City.

To make certain that he will be properly cared for upon his arrival in the U. S. and will not be embarrassed for lack of assistance, Miss Mary Robinson, executive secretary of the Fayette County Chapter of the American Red Cross, has wired Red Cross headquarters to send all information possible regarding Hays, and to render whatever assistance he may desire upon reaching America so he can return here without delay.

Hays went overseas with the A. E. F. during the first World War, and was stationed in Paris for some time before returning to America.

He later returned to France and took up dentistry. He married a French girl, and he and his wife were in this city some months before war broke out in 1939.

It was sometime after the Germans occupied Paris before Hays was picked up by the Germans and sent to a concentration camp not far from France. Letters received from him through the Red Cross stated that he was being well treated in the internment camp.

Word that he was en route home was given out from Washington, D. C. over the week end.

NOW IS TIME TO SALVAGE FATS FOR RED POINTS

Meat Coupons Will Come in Handy Later On,
Chairman Says

This present happy interlude of abundance due to OPA's reduction in ration points on many pork and beef cuts may be only a temporary blessing to the family larder, but it is an ideal time for fat salvage, Maynard Craig, salvage chairman here, said today.

"While meat is plentiful, women have an opportunity to save more fat for re-use and consequently will have more to turn in when it is no longer usable as food."

"That used kitchen fat also continues to be redeemable at two meat ration points a pound, regardless of feast or famine—so now is the time to save it, you may need those points later on," Craig said.

Right now, he continued, women should be able to save much more than the tablespoonful a day of used fat which the government asked from each home.

Nutrition experts estimate that bacon yields from 18 to 24 tablespoonfuls of fat to the pound and sausage from six to eight tablespoonfuls. Beef, of course, depends on the cut, they say, but its fat content is high and desirable.

Higher fat collections at this time must compensate for the natural lag in the warm weather, when less meat is eaten, if we are to reach the household fat salvage quota of 230,000,000 lbs. set for this year, Craig said. "We can't get too much—the war effort and industry could absorb an indefinitely larger amount of fat than the quota set," he added.

AUTO STEALING IS CONFESSED BY COLORED BOY

Sunday Afternoon Arrest of 13-year-old Is Solution
To Many Thefts

A 13-year-old colored boy, who had never been in trouble, was taken into custody by the police after he was seen prowling about a coupe parked in the Halliday Garage lot on North Fayette Street Sunday afternoon. Under questioning, he admitted recent theft of at least half a dozen automobiles which he had driven about for an hour or more, and then parked near the place from which he had stolen them.

For weeks the police have been keeping a close lookout for youthful thieves who have operated in the area within a few blocks of the high school grounds, but each time the cars have been taken and returned without the police being able to pick up the thieves.

In one or two instances two or three boys were seen in the stolen cars, but the boy arrested Sunday denies that anyone else was with him. He said he took the cars just to get a ride.

The boy was released in custody of his parents, and was to report in juvenile court Monday.

The boy's arrest is expected to solve most of the thefts that have been occurring.
